Take the pledge!

I pledge that I will:

- tell someone if I'm struggling and need help;
- reach out and tell you if I'm worried about you;
- listen to you, without judgment if you need someone to talk to;
- ask you, directly, if I think you're trying to tell me about suicide;
- help you get support if you're struggling and/or thinking about suicide.

Worried about someone else?

Be alert – Not everyone who thinks about suicide will tell someone, but there may be warning signs.

Be direct – Talk to the person you are worried about, and ask about suicide. Tell them you want to know how they really are, and that it is OK to talk about suicide.

Listen – Just listening is one of the most helpful things you can do. Try not to judge or give advice.

Get some help – It's OK if you don't know how; the ideas in this leaflet can get you started.

Take care of yourself – You may find it helpful to discuss your feelings with another friend, or a confidential service.

Thinking about suicide?

You are not the only person – Many people consider suicide at some point in their life.

Talk to someone – Don't keep suicidal feelings to yourself, please reach out. Being silent isn't being strong. It's okay to ask for help.

You don't have to be alone – Someone out there wants to listen.

Be aware – Alcohol and drugs can often make things worse.

Keep yourself safe – Make an agreement with yourself and someone else that you won't act on your suicidal thoughts while further help is being arranged.

Ask for help – See your GP or go to A&E. Have a look at the information on this card to find out where else you can go for help.

Remember – Your thoughts and feelings CAN change.
We hope this information is helpful and offers you some hope.
